International Conference on Inclusive Insurance 2022

OVERVIEW

The inclusive insurance sector has experienced persistent growth in client outreach and premium volumes over the past ten years. Modern technologies are boosting market coverage. Since the onset of COVID-19, technology is increasing the digitization of the industry, reducing transaction costs, and facilitating faster access to insurance products.

However, many people especially those living at the bottom of the pyramid are still without cover or alternative risk management options. Climate change is making the situation worse especially for persons who are most at risk to its effects.

With the global middle class expected to grow to five billion within two decades, billions of people who are without a formal safety net from insurance are at risk of falling back into poverty.

Inclusive insurance is a way to stem the tide of such potential setbacks. It can provide valuable protection to vulnerable groups exposed to climate change including farmers and fisherfolk. Other occupational groups such as taxi operators, tourism workers and small and medium sized business players can also benefit from inclusive insurance.

ICII MISSION

- Provide a non-profit platform for stakeholders to present and discuss issues, policies, and state-of-the-art solutions for efficient, sustainable, and inclusive insurance product
- Promote the development and proliferation of good-value insurance for emerging economies.
- Enhance awareness of the demand for insurance in the low-income segment and its potential
- Facilitate opportunities for insurance and development experts to progressively develop shared visions and create new partnerships.

Since 2005, the Microinsurance Network and the Munich Re Foundation in collaboration with Insurance Associations organizes the ICII.

“This year, Jamaica is pleased to be the first country in the Caribbean to host the conference in its 18-year history. Although participants have traditionally come from Asia and Africa, this year’s conference promises greater prospects for persons from the Caribbean and Latin America to attend.

We are looking forward to welcoming over 500 experts from over fifty countries to our shores. Our discussions about insurance solutions for persons with lower incomes will help chart a way forward to promote further inclusion in the industry.”
– Sharon Donaldson, President IAJ
