PRESS RELEASE

International Microinsurance Conference - Learning Sessions Ghana
International Microinsurance Conference - Learning Sessions Ghana
to be held in Accra

Accra, May 16th, 2012

The ‘International Microinsurance Conference – Learning Sessions Ghana’ conference will take place on May 22nd and 23rd, 2012 at the Mövenpick Ambassador Hotel in Accra. The event is organized by the National Insurance Commission of Ghana (NIC) and the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) in partnership with three high profile organizations engaged in the microinsurance sector: the Munich Re Foundation, a non-profit organization founded by the global reinsurer Munich RE, the Microinsurance Network, an international network of multilateral agencies and other stakeholders active in this area; and the financial sector development initiative Making Finance Work for Africa.

Microinsurance is a means of protecting households and small businesses in the informal sector from vulnerability caused for example by natural disasters or the sudden illness or death of a family member. It is based on the premise that low income customers need access to insurance products that are tailored to their needs. According to Mrs. Nyamikeh Kyiamah, Commissioner of Insurance; "Microinsurance seeks to reach out to customers that are not yet served by traditional insurance markets, and provide them with a valuable tool to manage their livelihood risks".

The National Insurance Commission is actively spearheading the development of microinsurance in Ghana, particularly through the development of an appropriate regulatory framework for microinsurance products. It is estimated that there are currently 20 microinsurance products on offer in Ghana, provided by 15 different companies. Microinsurance is a new and developing market, which is likely to see even more expansion in the near future.

The conference will offer a learning and networking platform for key stakeholders in the Ghanaian insurance sector engaged or interested in the development of microinsurance. It will gather over 150 senior representatives from insurance companies, brokers, distribution channels and other interested parties. Renowned speakers from Ghana, Kenya, South Africa, Ethiopia, India, USA and various European countries will provide international perspectives on the challenges and opportunities involved in providing microinsurance services to customers in Ghana.
In six interrelated sessions, participants will learn about and discuss the regulatory framework in Ghana, the importance of consistent data collection and appropriate pricing of microinsurance products, latest research results about customers’ needs as well as different channels and innovative technologies for reaching out to customers.
